

GAVE UP HIS LIFE

Prince Albert Victor Died Yesterday Morning.

ENGLAND IS WOE STRICKEN

Close of the Life of the Heir Presumptive to the Throne—Cardinals Manning and Simonetti Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Prince Albert Victor, duke of Clarence and Avondale, eldest son of the prince of Wales and heir presumptive to the throne of Great Britain, died at 9:15 a. m. A decided change for the worse occurred shortly after 8 o'clock and the prince gradually sank until the end. Death came quietly and peacefully.

Queen Victoria was immediately notified at Osborne of the death of her grandson. She at once telegraphed to the prince and princess of Wales her deep grief and heartfelt share in their loss. At 11 o'clock the mayor of London received a dispatch from the prince and princess of Wales. It only said: "At 9:15 this morning our beloved son passed away."

St. Paul's Bells Told. The great bell of St. Paul's tolled forth the news to the waiting city, and the announcement was immediately posted at the Mansion house. The bells of St. Paul's were never tolled save on the occasion of the death of an heir to the throne, and therefore no further information was necessary for the people of London to make them aware that, after a gallant struggle, the duke had finally succumbed.

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR.

The flags on the tower of London and on all public buildings were placed at half-mast, while at Windsor castle the half-masted flag also gave notice to the people of the royal borough of the calamity that had befallen the royal house.

The news of the duke of Clarence's death has caused widespread grief and already demonstrations of public feeling are apparent everywhere.

The Lord Mayor's Condolence. On receipt of the news the lord mayor at once sent the following message to the prince of Wales:

"We are profoundly moved by the sad news and have communicated it to our fellow citizens. We tender our deep and respectful sympathy with your royal highness in this great sorrow and national calamity."

Grief is General.

The whole country is in mourning. The news came with a shock upon the people, as the early morning bulletin had encouraged hope of a better result. The news was posted at Marlborough house, the London residence of the prince of Wales, at 9:15, just ten minutes after the death of the duke. The crowd in waiting, largely composed of working people, gave vent to loud expressions of grief and of pity and loyalty for the queen, the prince and princess of Wales and Princess Mary. The Pall Mall and adjoining streets were thronged. Hundreds of well-dressed women and men, evidently of the nobility and gentry, crowded along with the common people the sidewalks and roadways, and the latter were jammed with carriages. The news spread rapidly through the West End, and everywhere there was the same expression of grief and sympathy and loyalty.

A Sad Postscript. Coupled with the sad death of the young prince is the thought that the bells which were soon to toll for his funeral were to have rung out merrily little more than a month hence upon the occasion of his marriage to broken-hearted Princess Mary. The nation is honestly in sympathy with the queen, princess of Wales and the Princess Mary, three royal personages whose good qualities have endeared them to all good Englishmen.

Politically the death of Prince Albert Victor will have no great effect in England. George, the eldest son of Prince George of Wales, the second son of the prince of Wales, has enjoyed a far greater degree of popularity than his dead predecessor was ever able to command.

As the day progressed the crowd in the vicinity of Marlborough house increased. The Mall was at times completely blocked with carriages conveying the most noted people of the kingdom. Lord Salisbury, the prime minister, and Lady Salisbury, and nearly the entire diplomatic corps were among the callers.

THE DEAD PRINCE.

Prince Albert Victor Christian Edward was born January 6, 1864, and is therefore 27 years old. He was the eldest son of the prince of Wales, the duke of Cornwall, and of the duchess of Cornwall. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and the University of Heidelberg. Previous to his entering an undergraduate, however, he passed two years as a naval cadet on board the Britannia, and in 1879 started with his brother, Prince George of Wales, on a voyage around the world in the Baccante. He returned to England in 1882. On leaving the university Prince Albert Victor proceeded to Aldershot to prepare for the army. In 1883 he was invested with the Order of the Garter. He was created an honorary LL. D. of Cambridge in 1884. In the spring of 1885 he returned from a visit to India, and on June 23 of that year he took his seat in the house of lords as duke of Clarence and Avondale and earl of Athlone, titles conferred on him by the queen. On December 18, 1890, he was installed as Reading as right worshipful provincial grand master of the province of Berkshire. His present military rank is that of major, he holding a commission in the Tenth Hussars, of which regiment his father is colonel. On December 25 last the Court Journal contained the official announcement that the marriage of his royal highness Prince Albert Victor to her serene highness Princess Victoria Mary of Teck, the betrothal of the royal lovers having been previously announced, would take place on Saturday, January 17, at St. George's chapel, Windsor castle.

The Heir Presumptive. By the death of the duke of Clarence and Avondale the next person to the throne of Wales in the line of direct succession is Prince George Frederick Ernest Albert of Wales, brother of the duke. He was born June 3, 1860. He soon displayed a predilection for naval affairs and after serving in minor capacities was appointed in March, 1886, to the command of the new gunboat Thetis, and while on this vessel he was attached to the British North American squadron. In August, 1891, he was promoted to the rank of commander of her majesty's fleet.

TWO PRELATES DEAD.

The Venerable Cardinal Manning Breathes His Last—Death of Cardinal Simonetti.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Cardinal Manning expired in this city at 8:30 a. m. Hope had long been given up for the recovery of the dying divine and the divine blessing of the pope had been extended the rapidly-sinking man hours before his demise. His end was peaceful and painless.

Henry Edward Manning was born in London in 1808. His parents were wealthy, his father at one time holding the office of governor of the Bank of England. Henry obtained his education at Harrow and Merton college, Oxford, where he had as classmates, among others, Newman, Huber and others who subsequently became famous. After his college career he held orders and was appointed rector of St. Giles, in Sussex, in 1834, and was soon afterward made archdeacon of Chichester. In the tractarian movement of Oxford, Manning played a considerable part, but it was quite unconsciously that he drifted into the fold of the Catholic church. On one occasion he preached a violent tirade against the pope at Oxford, and Newman, who was on the point of denouncing his religion, refused to receive his old friend. In 1851, owing to the German decision, Manning joined the Catholic church, entered the priesthood and was later, founded the congregation of Oblates of St. Charles Borromeo. In 1865 he succeeded Cardinal Wiseman as archbishop of Westminster. In 1875 he became a cardinal. The twenty-fifth year of his archiepiscopate was celebrated on the 8th of June last, when almost the whole religious community, Protestant as well as Catholic, united to do him honor.

His Death Was Quiet. The cardinal continued to grow weaker and weaker during the night, until finally his prostration became complete. He was able, however, to join in the prayers which were being offered at his bedside. His eminence continued these supplications for divine mercy until half-past 7 o'clock, when he became unconscious. His death was calm, and he passed away evidently without pain. Telegrams of regret from all parts of the world are being received.

Death of Cardinal Simonetti.

Rome, Jan. 14.—Cardinal Simonetti, formerly papal secretary of state and prefect general of the propaganda, is dead. His death was due to an attack of influenza from which he had been suffering for several days.

Grief in Canada.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—Dispatches received today indicate that profound sorrow has been created throughout the whole of Canada by the announcement that Prince Albert Victor had succumbed to his illness. Everywhere flags are flying half-mast from public buildings, while from many private residences and business places floats the same sign of general grief.

Cause of the Cardinal's Death.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Cardinal Manning did not die of influenza as has been generally reported. He had been in a feeble condition some time from old age, to which the asceticism of his life contributed. He was finally stricken by bronchitis complicated with inflammation of the lungs. His weakness was extreme, and towards the close was so great that he can hardly have been aware of his condition.

Letter from the Pope.

Rome, Jan. 14.—A special letter has been sent by the pope to the cardinal archbishop of Paris requesting that prelate to at once cause the French clergy to abandon all opposition to the French government and to strictly carry out the papal policy of conciliation.

Died of Heart Failure.

KENTON, Ohio, Jan. 14.—General James S. Robinson, formerly secretary of state of Ohio, died today of heart failure. He entered the army as private and came out as brevet major general. He served two terms in congress and was secretary of state of Ohio from 1884 to 1888.

The Valley City's New Pumping Outfit.

A CHAT WITH FRANK N. HOLLY

The Millionaire Engineer and Manufacturer Tells a Few Things in Mechanical Science—Hotel News.

Frank N. Holly of the Holly Manufacturing company, Lockport, N. Y., is a guest at the Morton. "Our business outlook for this year is excellent," he said yesterday to a reporter for THE HERALD. "We already have contracts for something over a million dollars worth of engines and pumps, but we shall be able to fill orders if the grip will only keep away from us. The day I left, forty-two of our men were sick with it."

"What's new in pump designs?" "Well, there isn't anything especially new. Modern engineers are giving considerable attention to perfecting the valve gear of engines. They wish to economize on the space in the piston. Formerly at least two inches had been allowed between the piston and the cylinder head; now we make our engines with only one-fourth of an inch space. Electricity is the coming thing in pumping outfits. Little attention has been given to this until recently, but some rapid advancements will be made along that line. There is no reason why a city shouldn't light its streets and furnish its water supply with the same motive power. The same dynamo that furnish the light can be used to operate the pumps. As a rule these dynamos can be run by water power too. The only trouble is that water power can not be regulated the way steam can. When any considerable number of lights are turned off at once, the current is liable to be increased to the extent that many of the other lamps will be burned out. However many electricians are at work upon the practical methods of increasing the resistance as the lamps are shut off. This of course applies to the electric light outfit; there is no reason at all why the pumps shouldn't be operated by electricity, and in my opinion that is the coming thing."

"What is new in New York politics?" "We haven't any politics in New York. David Hill seems to have it all now. What little he hasn't captured will have in a few days. It is wonderful the hold that man is acquiring over the politics of the state. He is rapidly displacing Cleveland in the minds of the democrats. It is my opinion that Hill can carry the state against anyone. I dislike to admit it, but I believe it is true. He is a wonderful politician, but when you have said that, you have said it all."

The Valley City's New Pump.

Mr. Holly is in the city on business connected with the purchase which the city has just completed from his company of a magnificent new pump and engine, of which the accompanying cut is a good representation. The engine will be a fine sample of the one to be sent to the World's Fair. The pump will have a daily capacity of 10,000,000 gallons, at a speed not to exceed 100 feet a minute. It is guaranteed to run safely at a speed sufficient to supply 14,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours. Its guaranteed duty is equivalent to 165,000,000 foot pounds while pumping at a speed of 100 feet per minute against a head of 150 feet from the source of the supply to the highest rise in the reservoir, including the friction in the line of pipe.

The engine will be finished in the latest design. A deck will extend in front of the cylinders, along the side of the engine and back over the pumps. A brass hand rail and stanchions will take the place of the side steps shown in the cut. The engine will have two high pressure cylinders, each twenty-seven inches in diameter, and two low pressure cylinders, each fifty-four inches in diameter. Two double action pumps will be used; each will be thirty inches in diameter, and all will have a forty-inch stroke.

Steam is admitted through the automatic cut-off valves into the high pressure steam cylinders, urging the pistons forward until full boiler pressure is reached at the point of cut-off is reached. The admission valve then closes and the remaining portion of the stroke is accomplished by the elastic force of the steam. When the piston has nearly reached the end of its travel, the exhaust valve between the high and low pressure cylinders opens and the steam remaining in the high pressure cylinder rushes into the low pressure cylinder and against its piston, which at that time is at the end of its travel and at the opposite of the high pressure piston. The low pressure cylinder piston is then in turn forced forward by the steam from the source of the supply to the high pressure cylinder, which is forced forward by the exhaust of the high pressure cylinder. This motion is repeated on each side and at each end at proper times. The cross connection between the two cylinders reduces the clearance spaces to a minimum, which with thorough jacketing insures the most economical use of steam.

The capacity of the pumps is sufficient to supply the city with water for years to come, even if the growth continues to be as rapid as it has been during the past decade.

Chat About Ohio Politics.

"I'm not a politician," said J. E. Allen, a Cleveland furniture dealer, at the Morton last night, "but I believe if the democratic convention will nominate Cleveland we can carry Ohio for him next fall. Mr. Cleveland has a great many friends in Ohio, and would make a strong campaign. I don't think we could do much if Hill were our candidate, still we should make a strong showing. I don't think Ohio people have any strong prejudices either way on the subject of silver coinage. You see they have fought every political battle on the ground of protection. They haven't paid much attention to the silver question, and I doubt their declaring in favor of free silver even if they had. Mr. Cleveland's attitude on that subject could do him no damage in Ohio. Our state was so thoroughly stirred up politically during the past election that it won't get quieted down before the presidential campaign is on. I don't think a

HE GETS ALL THE DELEGATES.

Elected in the Republican Primaries in the Quaker City—Resolutions of Confidence.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Conventions were held in each of the five congressional districts of this city yesterday to select delegates to the republican national convention.

Delegates favorable to James G. Blaine were elected at all of the convention.

There were two anti-Blaine candidates, but both were defeated. In the Second district United States Marshal Leeds received 19 out of 122 votes, and in the Fifth, where 218 votes were cast, Charles W. Henry received 30 of them. In the other three districts the more exciting canvass was ever made in Ohio. Yes, McKinley was elected by a large majority, but Campbell has hosts of personal friends throughout the state."

SHOOK BY A SECOND SHOCK.

The Terrible Explosion at Anderson is Succeeded by Another.

ANDERSON, Ind., Jan. 14.—The excitement occasioned by gas explosion which wrecked David Dillon's house last night had scarcely subsided and while the men were still at work removing the debris from the residence, another deadly explosion rent the house of Wm. Shively on the opposite side of the street. Shively, his wife, and daughter were seated near the fire discussing the previous accident at the time. Maud Dillon, at the moment was lying in an adjacent room suffering acute agony from her terrible burns and wounds, she having been carried into Shively's upon being brought out of the wreck of her father's house. All were recovered without fatal injuries, perhaps, save Miss Dillon who now has been through two explosions, and who will probably die.

Fifty Were Saved.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A dispatch from Hong Kong says that news reached there from Cap H. Point that fifty native passengers of the steamer Nantow, which foundered off that place, were saved by fishermen. It was at first supposed that all on board the Nantow, 414 persons, including the European crew, had gone down the steamer.

Well-Known Presbyterian Dead.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 14.—Elias Daggy, a well known citizen and for many years prominent in Presbyterian circles in this and other cities, died of the grip this morning. The grip keeps up its hold and many deaths have occurred in the last two weeks from it, principally of old people.

Chapman Will Resign.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 14.—It is announced that J. A. Chapman will, immediately after the pending Quebec provincial elections and the bye-elections to fill the numerous vacancies in the dominion house, resign his position as secretary of state in the cabinet on the ground of ill-health.

Minister Lincoln Better.

YONKERS, Jan. 14.—United States Minister Lincoln passed a good night. The feverish symptoms have vanished, Blaine delegates were unanimously elected. Resolutions instructing the delegates to vote for Blaine were adopted in all five districts.

In the conventions of the first, second, third, and fourth districts the following resolutions were adopted: "Whereas, The sentiment of the republicans of Pennsylvania is overwhelmingly in favor of the nomination of the Hon. James G. Blaine for president of the United States, it is hereby resolved, By this convention that the delegates here nominated be requested, in deference to that universal sentiment, to cast their votes in the national convention for that peerless statesman and foremost republican."

Words of Commendation.

The resolution adopted by the Fifth District Convention is worded differently, reading: "Whereas, It is apparent to the most casual observer that the overwhelming sentiment of the republican party earnestly demands the nomination of the Hon. James G. Blaine for president of the United States, and

"Whereas, The Hon. James G. Blaine is eminently and conspicuously fitted by his thorough knowledge of the resources and capabilities of the nation and by his broad statesmanship to perform the duties of president and guide the destinies of the republic and advance and maintain the great principles of the republican party; therefore be it

"Resolved, That in obedience to the sentiment of our party and the eminent fitness of the Hon. James G. Blaine, we request the delegates to be elected by this convention to the national republican convention, to be held at Minneapolis, Minn., to vote for the nomination of the Hon. James G. Blaine for president of the United States, and that all honorable efforts be made to secure the same."

STILL PLYING THEIR GAME.

New York "Green Goods" Men Find Plenty of Victims.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Two "green goods" swindlers and their intended victims were captured by detectives at the Grand Central depot yesterday. The sharpers gave their names as Charles Jensen and John Adams. The man that had fallen into their hands was Thomas B. Radcliffe, a farmer of Kingsman, Park county, Ind. The detectives saw him alight from a train with Jensen and followed the couple to a liquor store on the corner of Second avenue and Third street, where Adams joined them. The three had adjourned to a rear room where the detectives entered and placed them under arrest. Radcliffe said that by appointment he had met Jensen in the Getty house at Yonkers and came to this city to buy counterfeit money. He had $500 in a belt strapped about his waist. The swindlers had a horse and buggy at W. Conkey's livery stable, and when the detectives went there last evening they captured a quantity of green goods literature. France Buscher, a French Canadian, 60 years old, and his son Charles, 23 years old, arrived yesterday morning from Chapeau, Ont. They came to meet a young man who was to give them $3000 in counterfeit money. "Indistinguishable from the genuine article," for $300 of their honest cash. They met the young man, but Detective Johnson happened along at the right time and got the three of them.

"I knew there was bad people in the big towns, said Francis, naively, 'but I did not think they were so dishonest as this."

CAN NOT BE FOUND.

Nellie Brown Mysteriously Disappears and Foul Play is Suspected.

MIDDLERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Six days have passed since Nellie Brown, a pretty 15-year-old schoolgirl left her home in the quiet village of Oswego, in Oswego county, ostensibly for a ten minute call on a young girl companion who lived near by. She never reached the neighbor's house, but completely and mysteriously disappeared, and the unremitting search which has since been kept up has failed to discover a clue to her fate.

The theory that she committed suicide by drowning in the Seneca river, which flows near by, is discredited, because she had no reasonable motive for self-destruction, and the river would surely have yielded up her body to the searchers before this time.

A somewhat startling theory is now suggested in explanation of the mystery. It appears that under the will of her grandfather Nellie would inherit a considerable sum of money on reaching 20 years of age. If she died before attaining that age, the money was to go to more distant relatives of the testator, who are said to be living in Michigan. This feature of the case suggests a possible motive for putting her out of the way, and it being thoroughly investigated by the missing girl's friends.

MR. GAGE OUT OF DANGER.

He Will Be Taken to Lakewood, N. J., Within a Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Within a week, or as soon as the weather permits, Banker Lyman J. Gage, who is convalescing at the Holland house, will be moved to Lakewood, N. J., to spend some time and hasten his recovery. Lakewood is a winter resort in the pines of interior New Jersey, where ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland are spending the winter. A few weeks will be spent there and then Mr. Gage will be moved to the sea-coast, probably in the south. It will be many weeks, in all probability, before he returns to Chicago. So favorable is his condition, however, that the attendance of a night nurse has been withdrawn and in a day or two Mr. Gage will be permitted to sit up for the first time since he was prostrated a month ago. The operation undergone by Mr. Gage was a success in every way, but in order to encourage a more rapid healing of the incision made at the time, Dr. McIlhenny a day or two ago stitched the edges together. This occasioned Mr. Gage a little pain, but that has entirely disappeared now, and he pronounced to be well out of danger of a relapse.

HE USED BOGUS CHECKS.

Paxton Campbell, Son of a Minister, Arrested for Many Forgeries.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Paxton G. Campbell, a nicely dressed young man, was in Justice Lyon's court this morning charged with forgery. Campbell is a son of the Rev. E. V. Campbell, a Presbyterian minister at St. Cloud, Minn. He came to Chicago a few months ago, and according to his father has been rather a black sheep. He says he left home last March and has been wandering about the country since. When he came to Chicago he went to board with James Walsh a restaurant keeper at No. 326 Clark street. A short time ago he induced Mr. Walsh to cash two checks, one for $13 and the other for $27, drawn on the First National bank of St. Cloud, Minn., and signed E. V. Campbell. Mr. Walsh put the checks through the bank and in due course of time they were returned as forgeries. A note from the Rev. Campbell said that his name had been forged by his son and he had dismissed him. In young Campbell's pocket was found a letter from his mother which said his father had paid the last check he forged, but would not pay any more of them. Justice Lyon continued the case, placing Campbell under $500 bonds. Campbell is only 26 years old and admits having forged his father's name, but says he thought his father would pay the checks.

TALKING FOR WAR.

Sentiment on the Coast with Reference to the Chilean Outrages.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 14.—The Call, (democratic) says editorially this morning: "The testimony of the officers and men of the Baltimore given at the Mars Island investigation makes it clear that our sailors were assaulted in Valparaiso because they were American. The evidence is too strong to be shaken by interested Chilean statements, no matter how high the official source from which they emanate. It is plain also that the Chilean authorities were aware of the gravity of the outrage and not ignorant of the spirit which prompted it. All reasonable doubt has now been removed, and though Chile is little else a not too small to be compelled to do justice. The people will back our government in proceedings with stern decision. Chile in this matter has been treated leniently; the time for forcing her to do what, as a civilized and friendly power, she should have done voluntarily and promptly, has come."

Barnum and Forepaugh Combine.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—James A. Bailey, proprietor of the Barnum and Bailey shows, today purchased from Catherine A. Cooper, widow of the late James A. Cooper, the Adam Forepaugh shows. Mr. Bailey immediately transferred a one-half interest in the purchase to Joseph T. McAdams, who has been the manager of the shows since Mr. Cooper purchased them from the Adam Forepaugh a late two years ago. The amount involved in these transactions is not known.

Senator Plumb's Estate.

EMPHORIA, Kas., Jan. 14.—The will of the late Senator Plumb was entered for probate and shows some queer features. The will does not show definitely the value of the estate, but while it has been placed as high as $2,000,000 by some, $100,000 by others, it will probably amount to $500,000.
